New England Mutual Life Ins.,
Of Boston, Mass., Chartered in 1843.

Capital and accumulation, $650,000.
THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudently and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide perfect security under all conceivable circumstances, for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured the surplus at stated periods, and strict economy is observed.

Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the profits of the business, and is subject to no liability or assessment beyond his own share.

The directors are required to be peculiarly interested in the company, and they give it their personal attention; and bonds of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties. Therefore may be effected for the benefit of the wife, which is secured to her by law beyond the reach of a husband's creditors; and creditors may insure the lives of debtors.

WILLIAM PHILLIPS, President; B. F. STURGEON, Sec'y; O. P. ROBINSON, Examining Physician. June 15th, 1854. 41

Highly Important to Farmers.
THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL,
LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon 4 Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, (belonging to farmers), household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, &c., from one to five years, at lower rates than most other responsible companies.

All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently you will have no losses only your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Of Boston, Mass., Chartered in 1843,
Capital and accumulation, $650,000.
THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudently and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide perfect security under all conceivable circumstances, for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured the surplus at stated periods, and strict economy is observed.
Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the profits of the business, and is subject to no liability or assessments beyond his premium.
The directors are required to be peculiarly interested in the company, and they give their personal attention; and bonds of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties. Insurance may be effected for the benefit of the wife, which is secured to her by law beyond the reach of a husband's creditors; and creditors may insure the lives of debtors.

Highly Important to Farmers.

THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST,
THE MADISON MUTUAL,
LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, (belonging to farmers,) household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, etc., from one to five years, at lower rates than most other responsible companies. All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being as hazardous as any other, consequently they will have no losses only their own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are insured companies, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by LETTING THEM ALONE.

Farmers look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium notes, and for a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

Daguerreotype Likenesses,
Either single or in groups, not to be surpassed in Wisconsin. Miniatures taken in as good style as the Art can produce, having all the improved chemicals of the age, which, together with the advantages of superior light, enable him to give a clear, bold and life-like picture.

Miniatures taken in all weathers equally well, and warranted not to fade in the least, from 75 cents to $1. Pictures taken over for 50 cents.

Locketts and fancy cases of all styles furnished to order, and also miniatures in Pin and Bracelets.

Miniatures of sick or diseased persons taken at their residences if required.

Pictures of Children of any age correctly taken at very low rates.

His Room will be open from 7 A. M. to 5 P. M., and he invites all those that wish to see GOOD Pictures, to call and examine his Specimens.

Whether they wish Likenesses or not.

These specimens are specimens of Henry Clay, John P. Hale, Jenny Lind and General Tom Thumb.

Within two hours of the birth of Paul Verdot, his mother died; and as her husband had departed this life some six months previously, little Paul was left an orphan almost as soon as he was born; and but for his grandmother Truquet, manufacturer and vender of sabots in the ancient town of Amiens, in the department of the Somme, France, the little fellow must have been conveyed to the basket of the enfante trouvée, and consigned to the pious care of the good nuns attached to that anti-Malthusian establishment. Kind Dame Truquet having wrapped her tiny grandson carefully in her lap, carried him safely home, and by dint of careful nursing, unobtrusive scolding, and stripes not a few, contrived to bring him creditably up to young man's estate, with only one mishap of any consequence. This occurred one day when Paul was about three years old. Madame Truquet kept a stall in the market-place on Saturday, for the more ready disposal of her wares, and one or two likely-looking customers coming up as she was dandling Paul affectionately in her arms, she too hastily popped him down upon a lofty and loose heap of sabots just deposited on the narrow stall, which, unable to support the sudden and struggling weight, slid over, carrying the child with it, who fell heavily upon the pavement, and broke his right leg. This unfortunate tumble resulted in permanent lameness, the wounded limb when cured being about two inches shorter than his fellow—a calamity not without its compensating benefit, inasmuch as it rendered Paul forever ineligible as a candidate for military glory; in other words, deprived him of the honor of contributing a unit to the conscription lists. Nothing otherwise especially noteworthy is recorded of Paul's boyhood. He very early mastered the art and mystery of the sabot manufacturing, and at his own request was apprenticed to a cordonnier, so that he might thereafter be able to combine the twin trades of wood and leather shoemaking. Paul finished his time at twenty, and but for a mishap which befell him at that susceptible age, he would at once have set out with a light heart, like other young men of his class, for a two or three years tour through France, to acquire experience in his craft, and such general knowledge of the world as would qualify him to settle down quietly and comfortably at Amiens, with "Truquet and Verdot, boot, shoe and sabot manufacturers" over the shop door. This first stumble, as it may be called, upon the very threshold of life, was caused by the bewildering black eyes of Lucille Borlase, a young shoebinder employed by his master, at whose dwelling poor Paul used frequently to call for the work which had been given out to the mischievous damsel, and he was only too happy, when occasionally asked to sit down and wait while till it was finished. At those times, as Paul subsequently confessed to his indignant grandmother, he felt Lucille's merry glances shoot through and through his heart and back again, just as her bright needle pierced in and out of the less tender binding she was sewing on. This revelation made on the day his apprenticeship expired, would hardly, perhaps, then have bubbled over his lips, but for the great additional fervency imparted to his passion by the numerous wine-cups he had been draining on taking final leave of his camarades de boutique.

"Lucille Borlase!" exclaimed Madame Truquet, with explosive wrath, "why, Paul, you must have lost your senses! The Borlases have been children of the devil time out of mind. The men, sons, idlers, spendthrifts; the women, two-faced, dissembling hussies, that would deceive Satan himself, much more a poor gawky like you."

"Come, come," broke in Paul, with great heat, "not such a gawky as you may suppose, bonne mere. Besides a girl isn't always a saint for having been brought up in a convent; as for Lucille, parbleu! she is simplicity and candor itself. One can see it in her looks. O—h!" The long drawn sigh with which Paul concluded completely overrode the old lady's patience, never too steadily balanced—and she replied to it in a way not uncommon with her when very angry, by shying a sabot she was varnishing at the delinquent's head, accompanied by a volley of expletives not necessary to repeat. Frequent practice enabled her grandson to easily avoid the dangerous missile; and her words went equally astray of their mark after a few moments, as Paul hastened along towards the slandered damsel's residence, and arrived there he poured forth, with all the energy and distinctness of speed and ardent affection permitted, the hopes, tribulations, wishes and anxieties which in his bosom by the too charming Lucille.

"You do not know, then," replied that much amused baggage, "you do not know, then, my poor boiteux, that—"

"Boiteux!" echoed Paul, springing indignantly from his knees to the full height of his best leg—"that is true; still, if one is a little lame—"

"One may be six feet up one side," interrupted Lucille, with the same delightful mockery of tone as before. "No doubt; but I would say, if permitted, that you do not know, it seems, that I am betrothed to Jacques Dupre, the mason, who can earn ten francs to your five, my friend, and that we intend marrying next week."

Paul heard no more, or, at least, he would not if he could have helped it; but the husky merry laugh by which he was pursued, seemed sounding in his ears even whilst recounting his discomfiture to Madame Truquet. "Consoled yourself, Paul," said the dame, as she handed her afflicted grandson a spiced night-cap, and tucked him up comfortably in bed—"console yourself, mon garcon, there are prettier faces in Amiens than ever beamed under the cap of Lucille Borlase. Besides, as I told you, they are dissemblers to their very nails; you shall as easily find out their secret meaning, as you have hidden under the conjurer's palm. Good night, mon brave; you have had a lucky escape, and it is I, who have known the Borlase family these fifty years, who tell you so."

Paul was very much better the next morning—the fires of love and liquor had cooled sensibly during the night, and by noon he was sturdily marching along, with his kit strapped to his back, on the road to Paris, determined to bravely face the world in spite of all the Lucilles in creation. Paul did not, however, get farther on his road to the metropolis than Abbeville, where he found immediate and constant work, and such agreeable associates, that he remained there contentedly something over six years, in which time he contrived to save about eight hundred francs—the best possible proof that could be given of his general steadiness and sobriety. During that long period he had only paid two or three brief visits to Madame Truquet; and all he had heard of Lucille was, that she had married Dupre at the time indicated, and soon afterwards left Amiens with her Paris—Paul Verdot then had been residing at Abbeville approaching seven years, when a letter reached him to the effect that his grandmother had been seized with sudden, and it was feared, mortal illness, and was very desirous of seeing him before she died. He set off at once for Amiens, and arrived there barely in time to close the eyes of his kind and aged relative, and to hear her faintly murmur, in the last words that fluttered on her lips, an injunction "to avoid the revolutionists and to beware of Lucille Dupre, ceuse."

The revolutionists! Yes, Paul comprehended and acceded to that without effort. It was the beginning of the year 1792, under which date is inscribed the bloodiest pages of that frightful history. Amiens, like other towns, had its Saint Public and guillotine in vigorous execution, and drunken matches of the Carmagnole Ce ira penetrated the sick-room and mingled with the death-sobs of the expiring woman. But Lucille Dupre, ceuse! He could not conceal from himself that the last word had excited even at the solemn moment when it was uttered some score of feverish pulse beats—but what of that? He would, upon reflection, be cool as ice, obdurate as granite, to any advance from that quarter. Lucille had made a fool of him once; long ago, when he was poor and inexperienced, but now that he was rich—comparatively so, at least, (two thousand francs had been accumulated by Madame Truquet—not to speak of the business and stock in trade), and moreover, knew the world, Lucille Dupre, ceuse, if she entertained any thought, as his deceased relative's words seemed to intimate, of booking him for her second husband, was miserably mistaken—upon that point, she might depend, he was rock adamant.

Error, Monsieur Paul Verdot! A young and pretty widow, and especially a French widow—beware of how, and where, and when, she once drilled a hole in your susceptible heart—will, if it be worth her while, re-open the old wound in a way that all the defensive armor in the world can avail nothing against. It so fell out. Paul Verdot was standing at his shop-door one afternoon smoking serenely, spite all the hurly-burly of fierce politics raging in all directions, of which he kept himself studiously aloof, when all in a moment, a pair of eyes that had not their equals in France, flashed upon him, and a voice which he had never ceased to hear in his dreams, exclaimed, in its softest, sweetest tones, "Bonjour citoyen Verdot. Ah! I see you do not remember old acquaintances so well as I do. I'm in want of a nice light pair of sabots, and thought I might as well give you the preference."

"Lucille!" exclaimed Paul, letting fall his pipe and staggering back into his shop, as if struck by a blow. "A thousand pardons!—that is, I mean Madame Lucille Dupre, ceuse," he added, mechanically repeating a sentence that had been seldom out of his head since Madame Truquet's death, some five months previously.

"Hein! yes, monsieur," was the reply; "and for nearly a twelvemonth now! A light, vanished pair," Lucille added—a bright smile chasing away the demure expression into which she had momentarily constrained her features, as she seated herself, and extended one of the prettiest feet in Amiens for measurement.

"Not of that wagner's size, my dear Paul!"—so far had Lucille Dupre, ceuse, got already—"not that wagner's size! Surely my foot is not such a monstrous one!"

It's a firm belief that citoyen Verdot did not, at that precise moment, know whether he stood upon his head or his heels, or the foot to which he had applied the measuring-stick was six or sixty inches long. Presently, however, he became more composed, the sabots were fitted, and the result of the meeting was that half an hour had barely passed before Paul had once more offered his hand to the Lucille who, in days gone by, had so scornfully rejected it. This occurred in the sitting-room at the rear of the shop, where the young widow had allowed Paul to induce her to take a glass of wine and some cake.

"It's very kind and generous of you," replied Lucille—a real emotion filling her eyes with tears as she spoke; "but you were always kind and generous; and I hope adversity has somewhat improved me. My past wedded life was not a happy one, Paul; but with you," she added in a gayer tone, "I think I may venture to hope for—"

We will skip, with the reader's leave, the next two or three minutes, as non-essential to the story—resuming the conversation when Lucille is re-adjusting her cap, which had been in some way slightly disordered, and putting on her gloves preparatory to Paul escorting her home. "You will be charmed, Paul," the young widow is saying, as she gives a final finger-twist to one of her dark curls, and turns smilingly away from the glass; you will be charmed with my beautiful and gentle Lucille."

"Your own daughter?" exclaimed Paul, greatly surprised.

Lucille seemed to hesitate, and her face flushed vividly—as Paul afterwards well remembered; but she replied, "Yes—I thought you might have been aware of that?"

"Not I," replied Paul. "But what then! I shall love all that belongs to you, dear Lucille, and we shall be happy, you three, I make no doubt, as people in a fairy tale."

[Concluded Monday.]

A SURGICAL TRIUMPH.—The St. Anthony Express relates a curious incident of surgical science which occurred at St. Paul last winter. A pet Poland rooster, belonging to a gentleman of that place was so unfortunate as to have a part of one of his legs frozen off, whereupon his master, after much labor, succeeded in completing and attaching to the stump an artificial leg which was neater and handsomer, if possible than the original. No sooner was the leg affixed, than Monsieur chancier commenced strutting about in a perfect paroxysm of pride and exultation, and the neighborhood was defended by his lusty crowing.

FROM THE PLAINS.—Captain Clifton, United States Army, arrived in this city yesterday, from the plains. Capt. Clifton has been stationed at Fort Laramie for several years. He is now on leave of absence, and will remain in the states for some months.

We learn, generally, that the emigrants for California were getting on very well. The most of them passed Fort Kearney before the 20th of June, and in very good health. Some few cases of cholera, or a disease partaking of its characteristics, had occurred among them. The Mormons, not so far advanced on the route, had experienced more sickness, but their health was improving. It was estimated that some twenty thousand head of stock were on the route, but the number of emigrants was limited, compared with former years. The Indians were somewhat troublesome; but, except on one or two parties, no serious depredations had been committed. "Squatter sovereignty" was going it quite extensively in the Kansas territory. Pioneers had appeared, and staked out their claims on the Nemahah, and in the neighborhood of Fort Leavenworth great numbers of entries had been made.

Capt. Steptoe's command of United States troops was getting along very well, although there had been some sickness among them. His orders are for Oregon. —St. Louis Republican.

SAD.—We regret sincerely to learn that Judge Bronson has met with a heavy loss—no less than nearly his entire fortune, by the failure of the Empire State Dressing company. At this time of life, to have the earnings of so many years swept away, is a case of hardship, that will occasion universal regret. —Troy Daily.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 29, 1854.

PARTY NOMINATIONS IN ILLINOIS.

The editor of the Chicago Tribune has been making enquiries among such of his whig brethren as have heretofore taken an active part in politics and in whose judgment he could place much confidence. The result of his enquiries is that he has found but one man but what was against party nominations and in favor of a "free fight" from the lowest to the highest office. He says:

"The reasons assigned are, that parties are so completely disrupted, that an exclusive nomination would do injustice to thousands of voters who have been identified with the old democratic and liberty parties, but who entirely coincide, and are willing to act with whigs in favor of the only real political measures that will be at issue in the election. It were much better to invite co-operation than opposition, and thus concentrate all the force which can be brought to bear against the perpetrators of the Nebraska outrage, and those who are not outspoken against them."

It looks very much now, as though the whigs of Illinois would not be alone in such action. There seems to be a tendency in most of the free states to let all other issues remain quiescent till a decision is had directly from the people, whether slavery aggression is to be longer tolerated or not. Such is the issue presented by the Madison resolutions, and if the same spirit conducts the campaign that characterized the deliberations of that convention, we need not fear the result. The people are thoroughly aroused in the matter and their strength only needs concentrating to ensure their triumph.

J. B. Davis, Esq., stage agent, informs us that we were in error yesterday in stating that the Chicago mail left here at half-past ten o'clock. He says it does not leave till past eleven, and that the stage company are in no way chargeable with the delay in the mail at Beloit, that the stages have to wait the arrival of the Milwaukee train, and then it is impossible to connect regularly with the Chicago train, and that the company are willing to take the mail in the morning stage provided it is made up for them at that time. The cars will soon be running to Bass Creek, and we hope when they do that the railroad men will take no special pains to disconnect.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The whig convention of Massachusetts, to nominate state officers, and to express their sentiments upon the issues arising out of the repeal of the Missouri compromise, is to meet on the 16th of August.

PAPIER MACHE.—The attention of the ladies is invited to the advertisement of Mrs. Osbourn. The beauty of the articles she manufactures will unquestionably well repay them a visit to her rooms.

THE Chicago papers are down hard upon those of the citizens who have left the city for fear of the cholera. The Tribune uses the following language towards some of them:

"THEIR SIN HAS FOUND THEM OUT."—The cholera has broken out with great violence among the laborers at the Suspension bridge, Niagara falls, and the work has been temporarily abandoned. About forty deaths have occurred. The fugitives from this city will not get much sympathy from their home. Where will they fly to now? They ought to employ a band of music, to play the "Rogue's March" for them.

FROM WASHINGTON.—We do not see any reasonable hope that congress will adjourn on the 4th of August, as they agreed to do. The senate still hold the matter subject to a vote to reconsider, and there are now so many axes to grind, and so many logs to roll, that it is most probable that the session will be prolonged until after the dog days.

A few days since it was intimated that the secretary of state and the Russian minister were engaged in making arrangements in regard to the neutrality of the United States in the present hostilities in Europe, and to secure the recognition of the principle advanced by our government, and partly conceded by England and France, that a neutral flag protects the vessel and cargo. It is now rumored that negotiations have been concluded on the basis proposed by the secretary, and that the documents are about ready for the consideration of congress. The rumor is thought to be well founded, by those most conversant with diplomatic movements. —Chicago Tribune, 24th.

DESTRUCTION OF WHEAT.—We hear that the spring wheat upon the prairie is being considerably injured by the fly—an old enemy of wheat and well known to farmers in the east. It exhibits itself in spots in the fields, by changing the color of the straw to a premature yellow. This is the first season which this destructive insect has shown itself in the wheat fields of Grant county. —Potosi Republican.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—(The Madison stage upon entering town yesterday, (the 21st inst.) ran over a child nearly three years of age, belonging to Mr. Healey of this place. The wheel passed over the head of the child which was immediately killed. The driver has been arrested, and at the time of our writing, is undergoing examination. —Mineral Pt. Dem.

DISTANCES TO SAN FRANCISCO.—Lieut. Maury gives the following as the distances by the different routes named from New York to San Francisco, viz:

To San Francisco via Panama,	5,200
To San Francisco via Nicaragua,	4,700
To San Francisco via Honduras,	4,200
To do via Vera Cruz and Tehuantepec,	4,300

CHOLERA AT WYOTA, WIS.—The following is an extract of a letter from a friend at Wyota, Wis., dated July 23d.—Galena Gaz.

"The cholera has been raging in our village the past week to an alarming extent. Nine deaths have already occurred, and others are down with it. When the smallness of the population is considered, this mortality has seldom been equalled."

The aeronauts who went up at Hartford on the fourth, say that as they reached a great height over the river the water became perfectly lucid, and they could see any object in it even to the bottom, as distinctly as they could through clear water in a glass.

ARRIVAL OF THE AFRICA.

The telegraph brings to Milwaukee, and if it were working between here and Milwaukee would have brought today, the report of the arrival of the steamship Africa at New York on the 27th, with an abstract of its news. In default of a report of our own, we copy from the Sentinel of yesterday:

THE EASTERN WAR.—It is said that Austria will summon Russia to evacuate the principalities within a month, and occupy Wallachia without waiting for an answer. The Turks captured the Isle of Ramadan after a battle of 12 hours. The Russians set fire to several vessels.

The cholera was very fatal among Baltic fleets. Eighteen thousand of the Anglo-French army have joined Omar Pasha at Rutchuck. The Turks have crossed the Danube. It is rumored that the whole of Germany will shortly join the Austro-Prussian treaty. The capture of the fortress of Giansero by the Turks, is confirmed. The number of Turks that crossed the Danube on the 8th was 40,000. They were opposed by the Russians, but the latter were entirely defeated, and 900 killed and wounded. The last seen of the allied fleets they were sailing for Sebastopol. They number 58 sail.

One hundred and fifty wagons with wounded soldiers have arrived at Bucharest. Among the wounded were 80 officers.

A government despatch says that Napier's fleet had joined Admiral Corry's fleet in Baro Sound.

Accounts from Transylvania state that in Austria the convents on the frontier of Palermo were being despoiled by the Russians.

The rebels in Spain, under the command of O'Donnell, are near Almagra.

A small republican rising near Valencia has been put down.

A telegraphic report from Stockholm, dated July 11th, says that all communications with Finland are forbidden—even the Swedish mail steamers have been stopped and ordered back by the British cruisers.

A letter from St. Petersburg gives a gloomy report of the situation of the working classes.

The Emperor Napoleon reviewed the troops destined for the Baltic at Boulogne, and addressed them in a brief and energetic speech. They would embark on the 25th of July. It is rumored that the French army had received a check in Africa.

Omar Pasha had arrived at Silistria. The Dobrudzha was not yet evacuated. The Anglo-French forces were encamped near Varna, and were ready to embark on their campaign.

A pitched battle between the Turks and the Russians at Rutchuck was daily anticipated.—The Russians have completely closed the Transylvania frontier.

The cholera continued to prevail at St. Petersburg. On July 1st there were 580 cases in that city.

The cholera in its worst form had broken out on board the Australian emigrant ship Virago, which put back to Liverpool with 50 deaths.—The American ship Headly put back leaking.

Secret advices from Spain report the insurgents intended to carry on a protracted guerrilla war.

LIVERPOOL MARKET.

Wright's Circular of July 14th, reports crops doing well in all the growing districts throughout the country, and although rains have been pretty generally experienced during the past week, extensive draining has prevented any mischief beyond retarding the maturity of wheat, &c.

BUFFALO, July 24, '53.

GREAT PANIC AT THE FALLS.—It was reported here yesterday that the cholera had suddenly broken out at the Falls. On inquiry it was found that the disease was confined to the Irish laborers on the canal and low grounds near the suspension bridge. Considerable panic prevailed, which greatly helped to spread the disease. Numbers were found dying and dead, and some four hundred had fled.

The ravages of the disease have since abated, and the symptoms become more moderate.

The number of deaths up to last night had reached fifty. Work was completely suspended on the canal.

No sickness among the visitors, and the weather is cool and pleasant.

Three firemen on the Mississippi died from cholera, on her trip down. They were heated and drank large quantities of ice water. Health of the city generally good.

HOMESTEAD BILL.

As will be seen by our telegraphic report, the homestead bill has passed the Senate. The following are its homestead provisions:

Sec. 8. That any free person who is at the head of a family, and has arrived at the age of 21 years, and who is capable of holding lands under the laws of the states in which they are situated, should be entitled to enter one quarter section of vacant and unappropriated public lands and no more, which may at the time the application is made be subject to private entry or a quantity equal thereto, to be located in a body in conformity with the local subdivisions of the public lands.

Sec. 9. That the person applying shall make affidavit before the register of the land office, that he or she is the head of a family, of 21 years of age, and that such application is made for his or her benefit, and those specially mentioned therein, provided that no certificate shall be given or patent issued therefore until the expiration of five years from the date of such entry; and until the person or persons entitled to the lands so entered, shall have paid for the same 25 cents per acre, or if the lands have been in the market more than 20 years, 12½ cents per acre.

Other provisions follow in case of the death of the settler before obtaining the patent, &c.

THE NORTHERN ALLIES OF SLAVERY.

We have more than once expressed the opinion that indignation against the south for the encroachments of slavery is mispent. The south pursues its aggressive policy no farther than it is led by northern venal doughfaces—as is well expressed in the following sentence from the Columbus (Ga.) Sentinel:—"The south must unite. But even then we will be outflanked and overpowered. We must have northern allies. If they will enlist under our banner, we will not stop to enquire into their antecedents, nor question their motives. If they desire spoils let them strip the dead. They necessarily march in the van, and this is guarantee enough of their fidelity. But where are those allies? They are the democracy who stood by the Nebraska bill. With their aid, the south is certain of victory." —Salem Register.

Dr. J. Webster, lately Professor of Anatomy in the Buffalo medical college, died at Louisville, Ky., on the 18th inst., of dropsy of the heart.—He was reduced to a state of destitution, and was dependent upon the charity of the citizens for care during his illness, and for the rites of sepulture.

George Thompson of the Mendi Mission, Africa, thinks the missionaries have discovered the very head of the Niger river, in the Kong mountains.

New England Mutual Life Ins.,
Of Boston, Mass., Chartered in 1843.
Capital and accumulation, $650,000.

THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudent and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide perfect security under all conceivable circumstances, for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured the surplus at stated periods, and strict economy in the management of its funds.

Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the profits of the business, and is subject to no liability or assessment beyond the premium. The directors are required to be particularly interested in the company, and they give it their personal attention; and bonds of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties, which is secured to her by law beyond the reach of a husband's creditors; and creditors may insure the lives of debtors.

WILLIAM PHILLIPS, President; D. F. STEVENS, Secy.; CHAS. PULKER, Agent.

Highly Important to Farmers.
THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL.
LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, (belonging to farmers,) household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, &c., from one to five years at low or other rates than any other responsible companies. All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently you will have no losses of your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, taverns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected, restricting, by law, the fire risk to farms.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium notes, and for the last four months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The best of references given as to the responsibility of the company.

DEBTS and MORTGAGES for sale at this Office.

From Blackwood's Magazine.
The Wife's Secret.
Within two hours of the birth of Paul Verdot, his mother died; and as her husband had departed this life some six months previously, little Paul was left an orphan almost as soon as he was born; and but for his grandame, Truquet, manufacturer and vender of sabots in the ancient town of Amiens, in the department of the Somme, France, the little fellow must have been conveyed to the basket of the enfance-protegee, and consigned to the pious care of the good nuns attached to that anti-Malthusian establishment. Kind Dame Truquet, having wrapped her tiny grandson carefully up in her lap, carried him safely home, and by dint of careful nursing, unsolicited suckling, and stripes not a few, contrived to bring him up as a healthy young man's estate, with only one mishap of any consequence. This occurred one day when Paul was about three years old. Madame Truquet kept a stall in the market-place on Saturday, for the more ready disposal of her wares, and one or two likely-looking customers coming up as she was dandling Paul affectionately in her arms, she too hastily popped him down upon a lofty and loose heap of sabots just deposited on the narrow stall, which, unable to support the sudden and struggling weight, slid over, carrying the child with it, who fell heavily upon the pavement, and broke his right leg. This unfortunate tumble resulted in permanent lameness, the wounded limb when cured being about two inches shorter than its fellow—a calamity not without its compensating benefit, inasmuch as it rendered Paul forever ineligible as a candidate for military glory; in other words, deprived him of the honor of contributing a unit to the conscription lists. Nothing otherwise especially noteworthy is recorded of Paul's boyhood. He very early mastered the art and mystery of the sabot manufacturing, and at his own request was apprenticed to a cordonnier, so that he might thereafter be able to combine the twin trades of wood and leather shoemaking. Paul finished his time at twenty, and but for a mishap which befell him at that susceptible age, he would at once have set out with a light heart, like other young men of his class, for a two or three years tour through France, to acquire experience in his craft, and such general knowledge of the world as would qualify him to settle down quietly and comfortably at Amiens, with Truquet and Verdot, boot, shoe and sabot manufacturers, over the shop door. This first stumble, as it may be called, upon the very threshold of life, was caused by the bewildering black eyes of Lucille Borlase, a young shoelender employed by his master, at whose dwelling poor Paul used frequently to call for the work which had been given out to the mischievous dandy, and he was only too happy, when occasionally asked to sit down and wait awhile till it was finished. At those times, as Paul subsequently confessed to his indignant grandmother, he felt Lucille's merry glances shoot through and through his heart and back again, just as her bright needle pierced in and out of the less tender binding she was sewing on. This revelation made on the day his apprenticeship expired, would hardly, perhaps, then have bubbled over his lips, but for the great additional tereency imparted to his passion by the numerous wine-cups he had been draining on taking final leave of his camarades de boutique.
"Lucille Borlase!" exclaimed Madame Truquet, with explosive wrath, "why, Paul, you must have lost your senses! The Borlases have been children of the devil from time out of mind. The men, sons, idlers, spendthrifts; the women, two-faced, dissembling hussies, that would deceive Satan himself, much more a poor gawky like you."
"Come, come," broke in Paul, with great heat, "not such a gawky as you may suppose, bonne mere. Besides a girl isn't always a saint for having been brought up in a convent; as for Lucille, parbleu! she is simply and candidly herself. One can see it in her looks. O—L!" The long drawn sigh with which Paul concluded completely overrode the old lady's patience, never too steadily balanced—and she replied to it in a way not uncommon with her when very angry by shying a sabot at her, which was vanishing at the delinquent's head, accompanied by volley of expletives not necessary to repeat. Frequent practice enabled her grandson to easily avoid the dangerous missile; and her words went equally astray of their mark after a few moments, as Paul hastened along towards the slandered dandy's residence, and arrived there he poured forth, with all the energy and distinctness swift speed and ardent affection permitted, the hopes, tribulations, wishes and anxieties excited in his bosom by the too charming Lucille.
"You do not know, then," replied that much amused baggage, "you do not know, then, my poor loutre, that—"
"Borlase!" echoed Paul, springing indignantly from his knees to the full height of his host leg—"that is true; still, if one is a little lame—"
"One may be six feet up one side," interrupted Lucille, with the same delightful mockery of tone is before. "No doubt; but I would say, if permitted, that you do not know, it seems, that I am betrothed to Jacques Dupre, the mason, who can earn ten francs to your five, my friend, and that we intend marrying next week."
Paul heard no more, or, at least, he would not if he could have helped it; but the busy's merry laugh by which he was pursued, seemed sounding in his ears even whilst recounting his disclosure to Madame Truquet. "Console yourself, Paul," said the game, as she handed her afflicted grandson a spiced night-cap, and tucked him up comfortably in bed—"console yourself, mon garcon, there are prettier faces in Amiens than ever beamed under the cap of Lucille Borlase. Besides, as I told you, they are dissemblers to their very nails; you shall as easily find out their secret meaning, as what is hidden under the conjurer's palm. Good night, mon brave; you have had a lucky escape, and it is I, who have known the Borlase family these fifty years, who tell you so."
Paul was very much better the next morning—the fires of love and liquor had cooled sensibly during the night, and by noon he was sturdily marching along, with his lit scepter to his back, on the road to Paris, determined to have a face the world in spite of all the Lucilles in creation. Paul did not, however, get farther on his road to the metropolis than Abbeville, where he found immediate and constant work, and such agreeable associates, that he remained there contentedly something over six years, in which time he contrived to save about eight hundred francs—the best possible proof that could be given of his general steadiness and sobriety. During that long period he had only paid two or three brief visits to Madame Truquet; and all he had heard of Lucille, was, that she had married Dupre at the time indicated, and soon afterwards left Amiens with him for Paris. Paul Verdot then was when a letter reached him, the effect of which his grandmother had seized with such avidity, and it was feared, mortal illness, and was very desirous of seeing him before she died. He set off at once for Amiens, and arrived there barely in time to close the eyes of his kind and aged relative, and to hear her faintly murmur, in the last words that she uttered on her lips, an injunction—"to avoid the revolutionists and to beware of Lucille Dupre, vernee!"
The revolutionists! Yes, Paul comprehended and acceded to that without effort. It was the beginning of the year 1792, under which date is inscribed the bloodiest pages of that frightful history. Amiens, like other towns, had its Sabot Public and guillotine in vigorous execution, and drunken snatches of the Carmagnole Ca ira penetrated the sick-room and mingled with the death-sobs of the expiring woman. But Lucille Dupre, widow! He could not conceal from himself that the last word he had uttered even at the solemn moment when it was uttered some score of feverish pulse beats—but what of that? He would, upon reflection, be cool as ice, obdurate as granite, to any advance from that quarter. Lucille had made a fool of him once; long ago, when he was poor and inexperienced, but now that he was rich—comparatively so, at least, (two thousand crowns had been accumulated by Madame Truquet—not to speak of the business and stock in trade), and, moreover, knew the world, Lucille Dupre, vernee! she entertained any thought, as his deceased relative's words seemed to intimate, of hooking him for her second husband, was miserably mistaken—upon that point, she might depend, he was rock adamant.
Error, Monsieur Paul Verdot! A young and pretty widow, and especially a French widow—beware of how, and where, and when, she once drilled a hole in your susceptible heart—will, if it be worth her while, re-open the old wound in a way that all the defensive armor in the world will avail nothing against. It so fell out. Paul Verdot was standing at his shop-door one afternoon smoking serenely, spite all the hurly-burly of fierce politics raging in all directions, of which he kept himself studiously aloof, when all in a moment, a pair of eyes that had not their equals in France, flashed upon him, and a voice which he had never ceased to hear in his dreams, exclaimed, in its softest, sweetest tones, "Bonjour citoyen Verdot. Ah! I see you do not remember old acquaintances so well as I do. I'm in want of a nice light pair of cabots, and thought I might as well give you the preference."
"Lucille!" exclaimed Paul, letting fall his pipe and staggering back into his shop, as if struck by a blow. "A thousand pardons!—that is, I mean Madame Lucille Dupre, vernee!" he added, mechanically repeating a sentence that had been seldom out of his head since Madame Truquet's death, some five months previously.
"Hes! yes, monsieur," was the reply; "and for nearly a twelvemonth now! A light, vanished pair," Lucille added—a bright smile chasing away the demure expression into which she had momentarily constrained her features, as she seated herself, and extended one of the prettiest feet in Amiens for measurement.
"Not of that wagoner's size, my dear Paul"—so far had Lucille Dupre, vernee! got already—"not that wagoner's size! Surely my foot is not such a monstrous one!"
It's my firm belief that citoyen Verdot did not, at that precise moment, know whether he stood upon his head or his heels, or the foot to which he had applied the measuring-stick was six or sixty inches long. Presently, however, he became more composed, the sabots were fitted, and the result of the meeting was that half an hour had barely passed before Paul had once more offered his hand to the Lucille who, in days gone by, had so scornfully rejected it. This occurred in the sitting-room at the rear of the shop, where the young widow had allowed Paul to induce her to take a glass of wine and some cake.
"It's very kind and generous of you," replied Lucille—a real emotion filling her eyes with tears as she spoke; "but you were always kind and generous; and I hope adversity has somewhat improved me. My past wedded life was not a happy one, Paul; but with you," she added in a gayer tone, "I think I may venture to hope for—"
We will skip, with the reader's leave, the next two or three minutes, as non-essential to the story—resuming the conversation when Lucille is re-adjusting her cap, which had been in some way slightly disordered, and putting on her gloves preparatory to Paul escorting her home. "You will be charmed, Paul," the young widow is saying, as she gives a final finger-twist to one of her dark curls, and turns smilingly away from the glass; you will be charmed with my beautiful and gentle Lucille."
"Your own daughter?" exclaimed Paul, greatly surprised.
Lucille seemed to hesitate, and her face flushed vividly—as Paul afterwards well remembered; but she replied, "Yes—I thought you might have been aware of that?"
"Not I," replied Paul. "But what then? I shall love all that belongs to you, dear Lucille, and we shall be happy, you three, I make no doubt, as people in a fairy tale."
[Concluded Monday.]
A SURGICAL TRIUMPH.—The St. Anthony Express relates a curious incident of surgical science which occurred at St. Paul last winter. A pot Poland rooster, belonging to a gentleman of that place was so unfortunate as to have a part of one of his legs frozen off, whereupon his master, after much labor, succeeded in completing and attaching to the stump an artificial leg which was neater and handsomer, if possible than the original. No sooner was the leg affixed, than Monsieur chancier commenced strutting about in a perfect paroxysm of pride and exultation, and the neighborhood was deafened by his lusty crowing.
FROM THE PLAINS.—Captain Clifton, United States Army, arrived in this city yesterday, from the plains. Capt. Clifton has been stationed at Fort Laramie for several years. He is now on leave of absence, and will remain in the states for some months.
We learn, generally, that the emigrants for California were getting on very well. The most of them passed Fort Kearney before the 20th of June, and in very good health. Some few cases of cholera, or a disease partaking of its characteristics, had occurred among them. The Mormons, not so far advanced on the route, had experienced more sickness, but their health was improving. It was estimated that some twenty thousand head of stock were on the route, but the number of emigrants was limited, compared with former years. The Indians were somewhat troublesome; but, except on one or two parties, no serious depredations had been committed. "Squatter sovereignty" was going it quite extensively in the Kansas territory. Pioneers had appeared, and staked out their claims on the Nemahab, and in the neighborhood of Fort Leavenworth great numbers of entries had been made.
Capt. Steptoe's command of United States troops was getting along very well, although there had been some sickness among them. His orders are for Oregon.—St. Louis Republic.
SAD.—We regret sincerely to learn that Judge Bronson has met with a heavy loss—and less than nearly his entire fortune, by a failure of the Empire Stone Dressing Company. At this time of life, to have the earnings of so many years swept away, is a case of hardship that will occasion universal regret.—Troy Whig.

JANESVILLE : : : WISCONSIN.
SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 29, 1854.

PARTY NOMINATIONS IN ILLINOIS.—The editor of the Chicago Tribune has been making enquiries among such of his whig brethren as have heretofore taken an active part in politics and in whose judgment he could place much confidence. The result of his enquiries is that he has found but one man but what was against party nominations and in favor of a "free fight" from the lowest to the highest office. He says:

"The reasons assigned are, that parties are so completely disorganized, that an exclusive nomination would do injustice to thousands of voters who have been identified with the old democratic and liberty parties, but who entirely coincide, and are willing to act with whigs in favor of the only real political measures that will be of issue in the election. It was much better to invite co-operation than opposition, and thus concentrate all the force which can be brought to bear against the perpetrators of the Nebraska outrage, and those who are not outspoken against them."

It looks very much now, as though the whigs of Illinois would not be alone in such action. There seems to be a tendency in most of the free states to let all other issues remain quiescent till a decision is had directly from the people, whether slavery aggression is to be longer tolerated or not. Such is the issue presented by the Madison resolutions, and if the same spirit conducts the campaign that characterized the deliberations of that convention, we need not fear the result. The people are thoroughly aroused in the matter and their strength only needs concentrating to ensure their triumph.

J. B. Davis, Esq., stage agent, informs us that we were in error yesterday in stating that the Chicago mail left here at half-past ten o'clock. He says it does not leave till past eleven, and that the stage company are in no way chargeable with the delay in the mail at Beloit, that the stages have to wait the arrival of the Milwaukee train, and then it is impossible to connect regularly with the Chicago train, and that the company are willing to take the mail in the morning stage provided it is made up for them at that time. The cars will soon be running to Bass Creek, and we hope when they do that the railroad men will take no special pains to disconnect.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The whig convention of Massachusetts, to nominate state officers, and to express their sentiments upon the issues arising out of the repeal of the Missouri compromise, is to meet on the 16th of August.

PAPIER MACHE.—The attention of the ladies is invited to the advertisement of Mrs. Osbourn. The beauty of the articles she manufactures will unquestionably well repay them a visit to her rooms.

The Chicago papers are down hard upon those of the citizens who have left the city for fear of the cholera. The Tribune uses the following language towards some of them:

"THEIR SIX HAS FOUND THEM OUT."—The cholera has broken out with great violence among the laborers at the Suspension bridge, Niagara falls, and the work has been temporarily abandoned. About forty deaths have occurred. The fugitives from this city will not get much sympathy from their home. Where will they fly to now? They ought to employ a band of music, to play the "Rogue's March" for them.

FROM WASHINGTON.—We do not see any reasonable hope that congress will adjourn on the 4th of August, as they agreed to do. The senate still hold the matter subject to a vote to reconsider, and there are now so many axes to grind, and so many logs to roll, that it is most probable that the session will be prolonged until after the dog days.

A few days since it was intimated that the secretary of state and the Russian minister were engaged in making arrangements in regard to the neutrality of the United States in the present hostilities in Europe, and to secure the recognition of the principle advanced by our government, and partly conceded by England and France, that a neutral flag protects the vessel and cargo. It is now rumored that negotiations have been concluded on the basis proposed by the secretary, and that the documents are about ready for the consideration of congress. The rumor is thought to be well founded, by those most conversant with diplomatic movements.—Chicago Tribune, 24th.

DESTRUCTION OF WHEAT.—We hear that the spring wheat upon the prairie is being considerably injured by the fly—an old enemy of wheat and well known to farmers in the east. It exhibits itself in spots in the fields, by changing the color of the straw to a premature yellow. This is the first season in which this destructive insect has shown itself in the wheat fields of Grant county.—Potosi Republican.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—The Madison stage upon entering town yesterday, (the 21st inst.) ran over a child nearly three years of age, belonging to Mr. Healey of this place. The wheel passed over the head of the child which was immediately killed. The driver has been arrested, and at the time of our writing, is undergoing examination.—Mineral Pt. Dem.

DISTANCES TO SAN FRANCISCO.—Lieut. Maury gives the following as the distances by the different routes named from New York to San Francisco, viz:

Miles.
To San Francisco via Panama, 5,200
To San Francisco via Nicaragua, 4,300
To San Francisco via Honduras, 4,200
To do via Vera Cruz and Tehuantepec, 4,200

CHOLERA AT WYOTA, WIS.—The following is an extract of a letter from a friend at Wyota, Wis., dated July 28d.—Galena Gaz.

"The cholera has been raging in our village the past week to an alarming extent. Nine deaths have already occurred, and others are down with it. When the smallness of the population is considered, this mortality has seldom been equalled."

The aeronauts who went up at Hartford on the fourth, say that as they reached a great height over the river the water became perfectly pellucid, and they could see any object in it even to the bottom, as distinctly as they could through clear water in a glass.

ARRIVAL OF THE AFRICA.—The telegraph brings to Milwaukee, and if it were working between here and Milwaukee would have brought touts, the report of the arrival of the steamship Africa at New York on the 27th, with an abstract of its news. In default of a report of our own, we copy from the Sentinel of yesterday:

THE EASTERN WAR.—It is said that Austria will summon Russia to evacuate the principalities within a month, and occupy Wallachia without waiting for an answer. The Turks captured the Isle of Haradan after a battle of 12 hours. The Russians set fire to several vessels. The cholera was very fatal among Balie fleets. Eighteen thousand of the Anglo-French army have joined Omar Pasha at Rutschuck. The Turks have crossed the Danube. It is rumored that the whole of Germany will shortly join the Austro-Prussian treaty. The capture of the fortress of Gismurov by the Turks, is confirmed. The number of Turks that crossed the Danube on the 8th was 40,000. They were opposed by the Russians, but the latter were entirely defeated, and 900 killed and wounded. The last seen of the allied fleets they were sailing for Sebastopol. They number 58 sail.

One hundred and fifty wagons with wounded soldiers have arrived at Bucharest. Among the wounded were 50 officers.

A government despatch says that Napier's fleet had joined Admiral Corry's fleet in Baro Sound.

Accounts from Transylvania state that in Austria the convents on the frontier of Palermo were being despoiled by the Russians. The rebels in Spain, under the command of O'Donnell, are near Almagro.

A small republican rising near Valencia has been put down.

A telegraphic report from Stockholm, dated July 11th, says that all communications with Finland are forbidden—even the Swedish mail steamers have been stopped and ordered back by the British cruisers.

A letter from St. Petersburg gives a gloomy report of the situation of the working classes. The Emperor Napoleon reviewed the troops destined for the Baltic at Boulogne, and addressed them in a brief and energetic speech. They would embark on the 25th of July. It is rumored that the French army had received a check in a fight.

Omar Pasha had arrived at Sibiria. The Dobruzscha was not evacuated. The Anglo-French forces were encamped near Varua, and were ready to embark on their campaign.

A pitched battle between the Turks and the Russians at Rutschuck was daily anticipated. The Russians have completely closed the Transylvania frontier.

The cholera continued to prevail at St. Petersburg. On July 1st there were 550 cases in that city.

The cholera in its worst form had broken out on board the Australian emigrant ship Vingro, which put back to Liverpool with 50 deaths.—The American ship Hendley put back leaking. Secret advices from Spain report the insurgents intended to carry on a protracted guerrilla war.

LIVERPOOL MARKET.—Wright's Circular of July 14th, reports crops doing well in all the growing districts throughout the country, and although rains have been pretty generally experienced during the past week, extensive draining has prevented any mischief beyond retarding the maturity of wheat, &c.

BUFFALO, July 24, '53.

GREAT PANIC AT THE FALLS.—It was reported here yesterday that the cholera had suddenly broken out at the Falls. On inquiry it was found that the disease was confined to the Irish laborers on the canal and low grounds near the suspension bridge. Considerable panic prevailed, which greatly helped to spread the disease. Numbers were found dying and dead, and some four hundred had fled.

The ravages of the disease have since abated, and the symptoms become more moderate. The number of deaths up to last night had reached fifty. Work was completely suspended on the canal.

No sickness among the visitors, and the weather is cool and pleasant.

Three firemen on the Mississippi died from cholera, on their trip down. They were heated and drank large quantities of ice water. Health of the city generally good.

HOMESTEAD BILL.—As will be seen by our telegraphic report, the homestead bill has passed the Senate. The following are its homestead provisions:

Sec. 8. That any free person who is at the head of a family, and has arrived at the age of 21 years, and who is capable of holding lands under the laws of the states in which they are situated, should be entitled to enter one quarter section of vacant and unappropriated public lands and no more, which may at the time the application is made be subject to private entry or a quantity equal thereto, to be located in a body in conformity with the local subdivisions of the public lands.

Sec. 9. That the person applying shall make affidavit before the register of the land office, that he or she is the head of a family, of 21 years of age, and that such application is made for his or her benefit, and those specially mentioned therein, provided that no certificate shall be given or patent issued therefore until the expiration of five years from the date of such entry; and until the person or persons entitled to the lands so entered, shall have paid for the same 25 cents per acre, or if the lands have been in the market more than 20 years, 12½ cents per acre.

Other provisions follow in case of the death of the settler before obtaining the patent, &c.

THE NORTHERN ALLIES OF SLAVERY.—We have more than once expressed the opinion that indignation against the south for the encroachments of slavery is misapplied. The south pursues its aggressive policy no farther than it is led by northern venal douglases—as is well expressed in the following sentence from the Columbus (Ga.) Sentinel:—"The south must unite. But even then we will be outflanked and overpowered. We must have northern allies. If they will enlist under our banner, we will not stop to enquire into their antecedents, nor question their motives. If they desire spoils let them strip the dead. They necessarily march in the van, and this is guarantee enough of their fidelity. But where are those allies? They are the democracy who stood by the Nebraska bill. With their aid, the south is certain of victory."—Salem Register.

Dr. J. Webster, lately Professor of Anatomy in the Buffalo medical college, died at Louisville, Ky., on the 18th inst., of dropsy of the heart. He was reduced to a state of destitution, and was dependent upon the charity of the citizens for care during his illness, and for the rites of sepulture.

George Thompson of the Mendt Mission, Africa, thinks the missionaries have discovered the very head of the Niger river, in the Kong mountains.

H. S. SHELTON & CO.

MADISON MUSIC STORE.

THE undersigned has in his Ware Room, in Bruen's Model Block, a good assortment of

PIANOS, FORTES, MELODIONS, AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS generally. Some of the best manufacturers in the United States have entrusted their work to Chickering, Hallet & Davis, Lemuel Gilbert, Woodward & Brown, Loren Mott of Boston, and Hall & Son of New York, are all contributors to his stock of Pianos.

Prince & Co., Bishop & Child, and S. D. & H. W. Smith's Melodions are there also. These instruments are not found in auction rooms and other places where forced sales are made to raise money for the makers, for their reputation and the merchants' customers on the manufacturers own terms. They are all for sale at factory prices, and warranted satisfactory.

Pianos from other manufacturers can be furnished if desired.

An experienced and disinterested agent in New York selects for the subscriber any style and priced instrument desired—in whose judgment, musical skill and taste, impart confidence and pleasure.

NEW SHEET MUSIC received weekly, sold at publishers' prices, and sent by mail free of postage.

Violins, Guitars, Tamborines, Banjos, Accordions, Flutes, Fifes, Italian and other Violin Strings, Guitar and Bass Viol Strings of the best quality. Violin Bows

Bertini's, Hunter's, and other instruction books for all instruments, and many other articles in the music line, usually found in such stores, kept always on hand.

Do not go further East, until you have called at the

MADISON MUSIC STORE,

for, depend upon it, there is no use in it. D. HOLT.

Madison, May 31st, 1854. 41

DEALERS IN

HARDWARE,

Wholesale & Retail,

SIGN OF THE BAW, MAIN STREET, JANESVILLE

THE SUBSCRIBERS, in returning their thanks to their numerous patrons for past favors, and soliciting a continuance of the same, would respectfully inform the friends of Central and Western Wisconsin, that they have now in store, and offer for sale, at the lowest cash prices, a larger and better selected stock of

Heavy and Shelf Hardware,

Bar Iron, Steel, Nails, Stoves, &c.,

than can be found in any other establishment in the interior of the State.

The attention of Consumers and Country Dealers is particularly invited to our immense stock of AMERICAN ENGLISH REPAIRS & SWEDS IRON, CAST, BRASS, ENGLISH & AMERICAN DISTERS, TOE CALK, SPRING, COIL, & CAST PLOW STEEL, of all sizes.

Also to the almost endless variety of superior

Carpenter, Joiner, Cooper, Blacksmith, Wagon, and other Farming TOOLS, House Trimmings, Chains and Chain Pumps, Lead Pipe, Cut and Wrought Nails and Spikes, Tinware, Britannia and Japanese Ware, Table and Pocket Cutlery, Shears, Scissors, Razors, &c.

Our stock of

was never larger than at present, and comprises some forty different makes of stoves, having been previously fully tested in this market, from several of the best manufacturers in Troy and Albany. Having bought our Stoves on long time, without interest, and at a great discount, we are enabled to compete successfully with those who buy in small lots, "exclusively for cash," of which we will convince all who may give us a trial.

FURNITURE, STOVE PIPE, and all kinds of TIN WARE constantly on hand, or manufactured to order.

We are agents for the sale of Duryee & Forsyth's celebrated Fire Proof Safe and Platform and Counter Scales, and the sale of Yale's Magic Mail, Safe and Store Door Locks.

THE BOSTON STORE.

Let the Horn be Blown!!

"Sound the loud trumpet o'er land and o'er sea," "WHEELLOCK'S triumph, and ever shall be."

THIS is the middle of the nineteenth century, the first half of which has produced more change and onward movement than any fifty years of our Christian Era.

A great controlling power of this age is its commerce—indeed, this may be truly called the commercial age.

It has been well said by an ancient writer that "Man wants but little here below," and to supply those wants

THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudently and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide perfect security under all conceivable circumstances, for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured the surplus at stated periods, and strict economy is observed.

Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the profits of the business, and is subject to no liability or assessments beyond his premium.

The directors are required to be peculiarly interested in the company, and they give it their personal attention, and bonds of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties.

Insurance may be effected for the benefit of the wife, which is secured to her by law beyond the reach of a husband's creditors; and creditors may insure the lives of debtors.

Highly Important to Farmers.
 THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL,
 LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, (belonging to farmers), household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, &c., from one to five years; at lower rates than most other responsible companies.

All claims promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently you will have no losses only your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores; taverns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by LETTING THEM ALONE.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a European Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium notes, and for the last fourteen months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The best of references given as to the responsibility of the company.

 Materials Furnished.

THE SUBSCRIBER is now prepared to furnish BUILDING MATERIALS in any quantity, and CEILING than can be sold anywhere else in this vicinity. Working one of the best Quarries in the State, and possessing superior facilities for getting Out and Dressing Stone, manufacturing himself Quick Lime, and having put in perfect operation his Mill for the manufacture of Water Lime, he can offer superior inducements to builders for the purchase of these articles

Within two hours of the birth of Paul Verdot, his mother died; and as her husband had departed this life some six months previously, little Paul was left an orphan almost as soon as he was well could be; and but for his grandame Truquet, manufacturer and vender of sabots in the ancient town of Amiens, in the department of the Somme, France, the little fellow must have been conveyed to the basket of the enfant-trouvé, and consigned to the pious care of the good nuns attached to that anti-Melanchian establishment. Kind Dame Truquet having wrapped her tiny grandchild carefully up in her lap, carried him safely home, and by dint of careful nursing, unstinted scolding, and stripes not a few, contrived to bring him creditably up to young man's estate, with only one mishap of any consequence. This occurred one day when Paul was about three years old. Madame Truquet kept a stall in the market-place on Saturday, for the more ready disposal of her wares, and one or two likely looking customers coming up as she was dandling Paul affectionately in her arms, she too hastily popped him down upon a lofty and loose heap of sabots just deposited on the narrow stall, which, unable to support the sudden and struggling weight, slid over, carrying the child with it, who fell heavily upon the pavement, and broke his right leg. This unfortunate tumble resulted in permanent lameness, the wounded limb when cured being about two inches shorter than his fellow—a calamity not without its compensating benefit, inasmuch as it rendered Paul forever ineligible as a candidate for military glory; in other words, deprived him of the honor of contributing a unit to the conscription lists. Nothing otherwise especially noteworthy is recorded of Paul's boyhood. He very early mastered the art and mystery of the sabot manufacturing, and at his own request was apprenticed to a cordonnier, so that he might thereafter be able to combine the twin trades of wood and leather shoemaking. Paul finished his time at twenty, and but for a mishap which befel him at that susceptible age, he would at once have set out with a light heart, like other young men of his class, for a two or three years tour through France, to acquire experience in his craft, and such general knowledge of the world as would qualify him to settle down quietly and comfortably at Amiens, with "Truquet and Verdot, boot, shoe and sabot manufacturers" over the shop door. This first stumble, as it may be called, upon the very threshold of life, was caused by the bewildering black eyes of Lucille Borlase, a young shoebinder employed by his master, at whose dwelling poor Paul used frequently to call for the work which had been given out to the mischievous dunsel, and who was only too happy, when occasionally asked to sit down and wait awhile till it was finished. At those times, as Paul subsequently confessed to his indulgent grandmother, he felt Lucille's merry glances shoot through and through his heart and back again, just as her bright needle pierced in and out of the less tender binding she was sewing on. This revelation made on the day his apprenticeship expired, would hardly, perhaps, then have bubbled over his lips, but for the great additional fervency imparted to his passion by the numerous wine-cups he had been draining on taking final leave of his camarades de boutique.

"Lucille Borlase!" exclaimed Madame Truquet, with explosive wrath, "why, Paul, you must have lost your senses! The Borlases have been children of the devil time out of mind. The men, sons, idlers, spendthrifts; the women, two-faced, dissembling hussies, that would deceive Satan himself, much more a poor gawby like you."

"Come, come," broke in Paul, with great heat, "not such a gawby as you may suppose, bonne mere. Besides a girl isn't always a saint for having been brought up in a convent; as for Lucille, parbleu! she is simplicity and candor itself. One can see it in her looks. O—h!"

The long drawn sigh with which Paul concluded completely overrode the old lady's patience, never too steadily balanced—and she replied to it in a way not uncommon with her when very angry, by shying a sabot who was vanishing at the delinquent's head, accompanied by a volley of explosive not necessary to repeat. Frequent practice enabled her grandson to easily avoid the dangerous missile; and her words went equally astray of their mark after a few moments, as Paul hastened along towards the staid dame's residence, and arrived there he poured forth, with all the energy and distinctness of speed and ardent affection permitted, the hopes, tribulations, wishes and anxieties excited in his bosom by the too charming Lucille.

"You do not know, then," replied that much amused baggage, "you do not know, then, my poor boy, that—"

"Boiteux!" echoed Paul, springing indignantly from his knees to the full height of his best leg—"that is true; still, if one is a little lame—"

"One may be six feet up one side," interrupted Lucille, with the same delightful mockery of tone as before. "No doubt; but I would say, if permitted, that you do not know, it seems, that I am betrothed to Jacques Dupre, the mason, who can earn ten francs to your five, my friend, and that we intend marrying next week."

Paul heard no more, or, at least, he would not if he could have helped it; but the husky merry laugh by which he was pursued, seemed sounding in his ears even whilst recounting his discomfiture to Madame Truquet. "Console yourself, Paul," said the dame, as she handed her afflicted grandson a spiced night-cap, and tucked him up comfortably in bed—"console yourself, mon garcon, there are prettier faces in Amiens than ever beamed under the cap of Lucille Borlase. Besides, as I told you, you shall as easily find out their secret meaning, as what is hidden under the conjurer's palm. Good night, mon brave; you have had a lucky escape, and it is I, who have known the Borlase family these fifty years, who tell you so."

Paul was very much better the next morning—the fires of love and liquor had cooled sensibly during the night, and by noon he was sturdily marching along with his kit strapped to his back, on the road to Paris, determined to bravely face the world in spite of all the Lucilles in creation. Paul did not, however, get farther on his road to the metropolis than Abbeville, where he found immediate and constant work, and such agreeable associates, that he remained there contentedly something over six years, in which time he contrived to save about eight hundred francs—the best possible proof that could be given of his general steadiness and sobriety. During that long period he had only paid two or three brief visits to Madame Truquet; and all he had heard of Lucille, was that she had married Dupre at the time indicated, and soon afterwards left Amiens with him for Paris. Paul Verdot then had been residing at Abbeville approaching seven years, when a letter reached him to the effect that his grandmother had been seized with sudden; and it was feared, mortal illness, and was very desirous of seeing him before she died. He set off at once for Amiens, and arrived there barely in time to close the eyes of his kind and aged relative, and to hear her faint murmur, "in the last words that but-

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 20, 1864.

PARTY NOMINATIONS IN ILLINOIS.—The editor of the Chicago Tribune has been making enquiries among such of his whig brethren as have heretofore taken an active part in politics and in whose judgment he could place much confidence. The result of his enquiries is that he has found but one man but what was against party nominations and in favor of a "free fight" from the lowest to the highest office. He says:

"The reasons assigned are, that parties are so completely disrupted, that an exclusive whig nomination would do injustice to thousands of voters who have been identified with the old democratic and liberty parties, but who entirely coincide, and are willing to act with whigs in favor of the only real political measures that will be at issue in the election. It was much better to invite co-operation than opposition, and thus concentrate all the force which can be brought to bear against the perpetrators of the Nebraska outrage, and those who are not outspoken against them."

It looks very much now, as though the whigs of Illinois would not be alone in such action. There seems to be a tendency in most of the free states to let all other issues remain quiescent till a decision is had directly from the people, whether slavery aggression is to be longer tolerated or not. Such is the issue presented by the Madison resolutions, and if the same spirit conducts the campaign that characterized the deliberations of that convention, we need not fear the result. The people are thoroughly aroused in the matter and their strength only needs concentrating to ensure their triumph.

J. B. Davis, Esq., stage agent, informs us that we were in error yesterday in stating that the Chicago mail left here at half-past ten o'clock. He says it does not leave till past eleven, and that the stage company are in no way chargeable with the delay in the mail at Beloit, that the stages have to wait the arrival of the Milwaukee train, and then it is impossible to connect regularly with the Chicago train, and that the company are willing to take the mail in the morning stage provided it is made up for them at that time. The cars will soon be running to Bass Creek, and we hope when they do that the railroad men will take no special pains to disconnect.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The whig convention of Massachusetts, to nominate state officers, and to express their sentiments upon the issues arising out of the repeal of the Missouri compromise, is to meet on the 10th of August.

PAPIER MACHE.—The attention of the ladies is invited to the advertisement of Mrs. Osbourn. The beauty of the articles she manufactures will unquestionably well repay them a visit to her rooms.

The Chicago papers are down hard upon those of the citizens who have left the city for fear of the cholera. The Tribune uses the following language towards some of them:

"THEIR SIN HAS FOUND THEM OUT."—The cholera has broken out with great violence among the laborers at the Suspension bridge, Niagara falls, and the work has been temporarily abandoned. About forty deaths have occurred. The fugitives from this city will not get much sympathy from their home. Where will they fly to now? They ought to employ a band of music, to play the "Rogue's March" for them.

FROM WASHINGTON.—We do not see any reasonable hope that congress will adjourn on the 4th of August, as they agreed to do. The senate still hold the matter subject to a vote to reconsider, and there are now so many axes to grind, and so many logs to roll, that it is most probable that the session will be prolonged until after the dog days.

A few days since it was intimated that the secretary of state and the Russian minister were engaged in making arrangements in regard to the neutrality of the United States in the present hostilities in Europe, and to secure the recognition of the principle advanced by our government, and partly conceded by England and France, that a neutral flag protects the vessel and cargo. It is now rumored that negotiations have been concluded on the basis proposed by the secretary, and that the documents are about ready for the consideration of congress. The rumor is thought to be well founded, by those most conversant with diplomatic movements.—Chicago Tribune, 24th.

DESTRUCTION OF WHEAT.—We hear that the spring wheat upon the prairie is being considerably injured by the fly—an old enemy of wheat and well known to farmers in the east. It exhibits itself in spots in the fields, by changing the color of the straw to a premature yellow. This is the first season which this destructive insect has shown itself in the wheat fields of Grant county.—Potosi Republican.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—The Madison stage upon entering town yesterday, (the 21st inst.) ran over a child nearly three years of age, belonging to Mr. Healey of this place. The wheel passed over the head of the child which was immediately killed. The driver has been arrested, and at the time of our writing, is undergoing examination.—Mineral Pt. Dem.

DISTANCES TO SAN FRANCISCO.—Lieut. Maffey gives the following as the distances by the different routes named from New York to San Francisco, viz:

To San Francisco via Panama,	Miles, 5,200
To San Francisco via Nicaragua,	4,700
To San Francisco via Honduras,	4,200
To do, via Vera Cruz and Tehuantepec,	4,200

CHOLERA AT WYOTA, WIS.—The following is an extract of a letter from a friend at Wyota, Wis., dated July 23d.—Galena Gaz.

"The cholera has been raging in our village the past week to an alarming extent. Nine deaths have already occurred, and others are down with it. When the smallness of the population is considered, this mortality has seldom been equalled."

The aeronauts who went up at Hartford on the fourth, say that as they reached a great height over the river the water became perfectly pellucid, and they could see any object in it even to the bottom, as distinctly as they could through clear water in a glass.

ARRIVAL OF THE AFRICA.—The telegraph brings to Milwaukee, and if it were working between here and Milwaukee would have brought, the report of the arrival of the steamship Africa at New York on the 27th, with an abstract of its news. In default of a report of our own, we copy from the Sentinel of yesterday:

THE EASTERN WAR.—It is said that Austria will summon Russia to evacuate the principalities within a month, and occupy Wallachia without waiting for an answer. The Turks captured the Isle of Rodan after a battle of 12 hours. The Russians set fire to several vessels. The cholera was very fatal among Baltic fleets. Eighteen thousand of the Anglo-French army have joined Omar Pasha at Rutschuck. The Turks have crossed the Danube. It is rumored that the whole of Germany will shortly join the Austro-Prussian treaty. The capture of the fortress of Gisevno by the Turks, is confirmed. The number of Turks that crossed the Danube on the 8th was 40,000. They were opposed by the Russians, but the latter were entirely defeated, and 900 killed and wounded. The last seen of the allied fleets they were sailing for Sebastopol. They number 58 sail.

One hundred and fifty wagons with wounded soldiers have arrived at Bucharest. Among the wounded were 80 officers.

A government despatch says that Napier's fleet had joined Admiral Corry's fleet in Baro Sound.

Accounts from Transylvania state that in Austria the convents on the frontier of Palermo were being despoiled by the Russians. The rebels in Spain, under the command of O'Donnell, are near Almagra.

A small republican rising near Valencia has been put down.

A telegraphic report from Stockholm, dated July 11th, says that all communications with Finland are forbidden—even the Swedish mail steamers have been stopped and ordered back by the British cruisers.

A letter from St. Petersburg gives a gloomy report of the situation of the working classes. The Emperor Napoleon reviewed the troops destined for the Baltic at Boulogne, and addressed them in a brief and energetic speech. They would embark on the 25th of July. It is rumored that the French army had received a check in Africa.

Omar Pasha had arrived at Silistria. The Dobrukscha was not yet evacuated. The Anglo-French forces were encamped near Varna, and were ready to embark on their campaign.

A pitched battle between the Turks and the Russians at Rutschuck was daily anticipated. The Russians have completely closed the Transylvania frontier.

The cholera continued to prevail at St. Petersburg. On July 1st there were 580 cases in that city.

The cholera in its worst form had broken out on board the Australian emigrant ship Virago, which put back to Liverpool with 60 deaths.—The American ship Headley put back leaking. Secret advices from Spain report the insurgents intended to carry on a protracted guerrilla war.

LIVERPOOL MARKET.—Wright's Circular of July 14th, reports crops doing well in all the growing districts throughout the country, and although rains have been pretty generally experienced during the past week, extensive draining has prevented any mischief beyond retarding the maturity of wheat, &c.

BUFFALO, July 24, '63.

GREAT PANIC AT THE FALLS.—It was reported here yesterday that the cholera had suddenly broken out at the Falls. On inquiry it was found that the disease was confined to the Irish laborers on the canal and low grounds near the suspension bridge. Considerable panic prevailed, which greatly helped to spread the disease. Numbers were found dying and dead, and some four hundred had fled.

The ravages of the disease have since abated, and the symptoms become more moderate. The number of deaths up to last night had reached fifty. Work was completely suspended on the canal.

No sickness among the visitors, and the weather is cool and pleasant.

Three firemen on the Mississippi died from cholera, on her trip down. They were heated and drank large quantities of ice water. Health of the city generally good.

HOMESTEAD BILL.—As will be seen by our telegraphic report, the homestead bill has passed the Senate. The following are its homestead provisions:

Sec. 8. That any free person who is at the head of a family, and has arrived at the age of 21 years, and who is capable of holding lands under the laws of the states in which they are situated, should be entitled to enter one quarter section of vacant and unappropriated public lands and no more, which may at the time the application is made be subject to private entry or a quantity equal thereto, to be located in a body in conformity with the local subdivisions of the public lands.

Sec. 9. That the person applying shall make affidavit before the register of the land office, that he or she is the head of a family, of 21 years of age, and that such application is made for his or her benefit, and those specially mentioned therein, provided that no certificate shall be given or patent issued therefore until the expiration of five years from the date of such entry; and until the person or persons entitled to the lands so entered, shall have paid for the same 25 cents per acre, or if the lands have been in the market more than 20 years, 12 1/2 cents per acre.

Other provisions follow in case of the death of the settler before obtaining the patent, &c.

THE NORTHERN ALLIES OF SLAVERY.—We have more than once expressed the opinion that indignation against the south for the encroachments of slavery is mispent. The south pursues its aggressive policy no farther than it is led by northern venal doughfaces—as is well expressed in the following sentence from the Columbus (Ga.) Sentinel:—"The south must unite. But even then we will be outflanked and overpowered. We must have northern allies. If they will enlist under our banner, we will not stop to enquire into their antecedents, nor question their motives. If they desire spoils let them strip the dead. They necessarily march in the van, and this is guarantee enough of their fidelity. But where are those allies? They are the democracy who stood by the Nebraska bill. With their aid, the south is certain of victory."—Salem Register.

Dr. J. Webster, lately Professor of Anatomy in the Buffalo medical college, died at Louisville, Ky., on the 18th inst., of dropsy of the heart.—He was reduced to a state of destitution, and was dependent upon the charity of the citizens for care during his illness, and for the rites of sepulture.

George Thompson of the Mendi Mission, Africa, thinks the missionaries have discovered the very head of the Niger river, in the Kong mountains.

JURY, ROCK COUNTY.—In Equity.
Truman v. Chapman, vs. Willam

N pursuance of a legal order of the circuit court for Rock county, in this case made in the above entitled cause on the eighth day, made in the month of February, A. D. 1854, by J. A. Sherman, Sheriff of Rock County, at public auction, Mon of the said day of August, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, all those certain pieces, parcels or tracts of real estate which were claimed by the said defendant, situated in the County of Rock and state of Wisconsin, and known and distinguished as follows, viz: Beginning three hundred and forty feet northerly from Milwaukee street and twenty feet easterly from the race way, running thence southerly along the race way eighty feet, thence at right angles to Rock River thence along and river eighty eight feet, and then in a straight line to the place of beginning. The lots heretofore intended to be described being south eight and nine, in the Janeville water power. Al- though the same are not clearly defined by any boundary, to be drawn under a head of four feet, or water sufficient under any other greater head to produce a power equal in the power produced by the aforesaid number of inches under the aforesaid head. Dated July 1st, 1854. WYMAN HOWARD, Sheriff.

J. A. SHERMAN, Solr. for Compt.

IN CHIEF COURT FOR ROCK COUNTY.—Is Equity.
William L. Wells, Compt., vs. Mankus & Sons, Sheldons

THE subpoena issued in the above entitled cause having been returned by the sheriff of Columbia county not served on the above named defendant, Mabel Squire, and that after diligent search he cannot find the said defendant in this county, and it appearing that the said defendant is likely to be absent from the county for some time, the court is of the opinion that the said defendant cannot be found in this county, and no appearance having been entered by or on behalf of said defendant; therefore, on motion of William M. Tallman, solicitor for complainant, ordered that the said defendant appear and plead, answer or demur to the complaint on or before the 15th day of September next, or that in default thereof the said bill of complaint be taken as confessed against her. And it is further ordered that within twenty days from the date of this order the complainant cause a copy of this order to be personally served on the said defendant, and that the cost of such service, and the copy of the same to be published in the Janetown Gazette, a public newspaper printed and published in the city of Janesville, at least once in each week for six weeks successively, dated June 18th, 1884.

Witness my hand, this 11th day of June, A.D. 1884.

J. H. DODD, Judge, Circuit Court.
